

"Bad Dog"

It really is a wolf, but I call it a dog. This is an air activated device. It can be disassembled for storage. The roof just sits on top of the dog house so you can easily remove it to make any adjustments on the inside. It is operated by a double acting pneumatic cylinder which slides the dog forward on a track. The prop measures 2 feet wide at the front and back and 30 inches deep. The vertical walls are 2 feet. I have the prop positioned in front and to the side of my garage, and I activate the prop remotely with a 20-25 dollar device from radio shack. As the victim looks at the dog house wondering what "BAD DOG" means, I trigger it. You have to see them jump! One lady had a dog on a leash and the dog went berserk when I triggered the prop. About an hour later, the lady came back carrying the dog in her arms. As soon as she got to the end of the driveway the dog became frantic and again she had to leave.
